

CASTLES
IN THE GLADES

By Marjorie B. Wallace.

Announcing a new policy on the part of the Kolkum. This job is getting entirely too extensive to cover each week with any degree of satisfaction, so hereafter I will divide it into three sections and report upon it in each issue. Section 1, from Stuart to Belle Glade, section 2 the Clewiston district, and section 3 from Clewiston to the other end of the county. These are the three natural divisions into which the project falls for me. Trying to get over this last time every week is too hard on the Studebaker and on Mom's old bones, to say nothing of that tyrant, the pocketbook.

Today, pupils, we will take up section three. In this section we have two hurricane gates at present, and the Gulfport activities; the latter job is apparently a done issue. What policy will be followed, with respect to finalizing, that section remains to be seen. I have just finished taking ten miles of pictures of the incompleting levee, the men working on it, and by Nall to survey the entire job have done their work and been laid off. Now we can only wait for developments. Dame Rumor is as busy as usual, but if you don't learn to discredit that, by the time you have been around here for some years, you are pretty dumb.

Bennie's gate progresses by leaps and bounds. Pup has been added now to his excellent group of inspectors, and was running the gun ten minutes after he arrived. An old hand at difficult set-ups and accurate steel rail work, he just naturally drifted into his job. In case you have forgotten, the other four inspectors are Rosewell, Rich, Wardwell and Ewell, with Shaw on also temporarily or permanently running the balance. I doubt if you could get together a more congenial bunch, or men who have varied experience in concrete and steel work, which is perhaps the reason for the atmosphere of pleasant surprise and smooth progress prevailing here. Also, rendering unto Caesar what is due him, the Latham people have a most happy choice of men in charge of their end of the work; men who are reasonable, expert, pleasant to deal with, and efficient.

This gate is now away ahead of schedule, about 56 per cent complete, and you don't need to take heed of the fact that the concrete is of unusual excellence—the exacting tests show it. I here and there apologize to the people for my remarks about that concrete block—evidently he did something besides carry it around.

PAHOKEE RESIDENT HONOR STUDENT AT
WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Miss Margaret York of Pahokee, candidate for the A. B. degree in the College of Arts and Sciences at Florida State University, is a woman at Tallahassee, has made an enviable record as a student of the state institution from which she will graduate during commencement exercises of May 25 to 28.

Miss York's artistic and scholastic talents were recognized in her senior year at the West Palm Beach high school when her personal poems were selected for publication in the Royal Palm, school yearbook, and her name was awarded on the scholarship cup of the senior class.

She is recently elected to Phi Kappa Psi, scholastic honorary society, for the highest grade in the senior class, and was one of the highest ever attained by a student at the women's college.

Other achievement of the student from the Everglades, as recorded in a special issue of the college news bureau, includes: Participation in Torch Night '29, '30, '31, '32, '33, '34, '35, '36, '37, BELLE GLADE

MEETING HELD

The Home Demonstration Club of Belle Glade held an interesting meeting last Thursday at the club house, with Mrs. J. F. Browne, president presiding. The topic was home baking, and Mrs. Adrian Daines demonstrated baking Boston brown bread, nut bread and other breads. Plans were made for early day on the 29th, at Delray Beach. The County Council will meet at this time and a box lunch will be one of the features of the meeting. Those attending were Mrs. Ray Browne, Mrs. J. F. Browne, Mrs. Joe Freidheim, Mrs. T. Neilson, Mrs. Bryant McLendon, Mrs. George Parker, Mrs. M. C. Suggleton, Mrs. T. Lallyer, Mrs. C. W. Ogle and Mrs. Edith Barrus of Palm Beach.

INSTALL OFFICERS

Recently elected officers of the Belle Glade Woman's Club were installed following a "pot luck" luncheon at the club house Wednesday of last week in the last meeting of the club until the fall season. The new officers of the organization are Mrs. James Ball, president; Mrs. Curtis Thompson, first vice president; Mrs. S. C. Parker, second vice president; Mrs. James F. Scullen, recording secretary; Mrs. J. P. Sheldon, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Joe Freidheim, parliamentarian; Miss Pauline Hill, auditor, and Mrs. Ross Robertson, treasurer. After the luncheon a clever one-act play entitled "In 1909" was presented by Mrs. Ball, Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Townsend. Mrs. J. R. Neller, retiring president, asked Mrs. J. F. Browne, past president, to install the new officers, which she did, graciously presenting all the outgoing and new officers with corsage bouquets.

Mr. and Mrs. Dad Johnson and Mr. Alton of West Palm Beach spent last week-end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodward. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Starling

LAND FOR LEASE

100 acres rich black sandy loam soil, one mile south of the City of Okeechobee, on pavement, protected by heavy dyke, canal and Menge pumping plant. 40 acres farmed last year, balance needs some clearing of small willows. Yearly or long time lease—all new fresh perfectly smooth land—nothing better in the State of Florida for quality of soil and convenience of location. You must be prepared to finance yourself and to such a party will offer an attractive contract.

As he expressed it, the practical man knows how, but it takes technical knowledge to know why. Mrs. C. R. Heide is visiting relatives in Miami.

Miss Blanche Royal of Lake Harbor is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Jack Reid. Mrs. C. R. Heide is visiting relatives in Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Freidheim spent last week-end in West Palm Beach with Mrs. Maurice Hart. Mrs. Cord Richman has returned to her home in Louisville, Ky., after having visited Mrs. Carl Cox here.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Roberts and children Steve and Betty have gone to Arcadia where Mr. Roberts will undergo a major operation shortly.

Mrs. D. N. Coppedge, Miss Delphia Coppedge and Carl Coppedge of Inverness are the guests of Miss Morrell Coppedge.

nothing more or less than the legs upon which she walks; you will see, at the aft end, two steady big cylinders, one up and one down, for a dredge stands on one leg like a stork. These are the spuds. They are on the Gulfport, 32 inches in diameter and about sixty or so feet long, with a fifteen-ton steel shoe on the end with a point which digs into the bottom of the lake. On this pivot the dredge swings in the arc of a circle as she plunges; she advances by pulling up the spud in back and dropping the spud which is ahead. When you hear a long and a short blast from the Gulfport's whistle, you will know that she is about to do that very thing.

Even if you don't feel equal to walking the heaving pipeline to board the Gulfport, you might go out onto the levee and watch the ever shifting the baffle plates to strategic positions; you won't get your feet wet, and it is well worth the trip.

When Tibb and I were out on Dr. Broadfoot's gate Tuesday he was watching the second pair on the sub-foundation of which I told you last week. They are using the conveyor for the concrete, and by the end of this week expect to have two elevators and two conveyors busy every minute. Before a section is poured, the bottom is pumped out, after being damped off securely, then washed with clear water and dried with air from the compressor.

At present Broadfoot has his inspectors arranged thusly: On plans and layout, J. A. Webster; forms and concrete, Don Hansen; forms and layout, D. C. Cole; mixer, Keith Hardwick; butcher, Lynn A. Mitchell. When the other mixer is started, there will have to be another inspector on that job. Mr. Cole has set up housekeeping on the levee in a tent, and lives on turtle stew. Broadfoot has secured a furnished house in Belle Glade for his family, which he expects the first week in June.

The Congaree has finished digging in the St. Lucie and is now at work at Fort Pierce. It was a joy to see last Sunday the Swindall boys, Murray and Tabby, and Gene Blair, who motored over from Fort Pierce. These three boys with Jim Taunley, were the party in the first survey of this project. Literally, they went through "hell and high water" together, developing a mutual loyalty and affection which endures.

May your shadow never grow long, Adios.

BUILDING COMMITTEE
A special meeting of the building committee of the Belle Glade

Baptist church was held last night (Thursday) for discussion of plans on the proposed erection of a church building north of Hillsboro canal. The committee was recently reorganized with N. N. Starling as chairman, and Arthur Webb, W. C. Rogers, Frank Kelly and Walter Greer as members of the body.

Some material has already been placed on the site and the Baptist congregation expects to see work started at an early date.

STATION HERD GETS 2 BLOODED BULLS

The Everglades Experiment Station's herd of pure-bred and scrub cattle was increased this week by the arrival of two high bred Devon bulls which will be used in a series of cross-breeding experiments.

The station's herd of approximately 80 head is about equally divided between blooded Devon stock and Florida range cattle, part of the herd consisting of calves born at the station.

The Devon bulls, brought to the station Tuesday by R. W. Kidder, in charge of the herd, were loaned to the station by the United States Department of Agriculture to be used in the experimental work now being made to produce a strain of cattle suited to the southern part of the state. One of the bulls has sired a large number of high production milk cows and is also the sire of the bull which accompanied him to the Everglades station.

COMEDY CLUB WILL GIVE SUMMER SKITS

While social activities are at a low ebb and to be given the summer for residents who will remain in the Everglades section of the county, Fred Reynolds of Canal Point is organizing a Comedy Club. Mr. Reynolds stated his chief aim is to promote and develop the available talent on East Beach by directing and producing vaudeville sketches, musical comedies and dramatic plays.

Mr. Reynolds is a former stage comedian, having spent many years on the road prior to his residence north of Canal Point where he operates a truck farm. He has been active in production of amateur plays by community organizations and his comedy characterizations have always been well received.

The Comedy Club will be a non-profit organization, revenues derived from productions to be used to purchase make-up, wardrobe, wigs and scenery. The collection of equipment will enable the club to stage almost any kind of entertainment and will be available to other organizations of the communities free.

The club eventually hopes to be able to furnish entertainment for out of town clubs and other organizations.

The first efforts of the Comedy club will be a series of vaudeville sketches offered in conjunction with programs at the Prince Theatre in Pahokee and the Everglades Theatre at Belle Glade. The management of the theatres is having the stages remodeled to accommodate the club. The skits will all have special scenery and costumes.

Residents desiring to join the club may get in touch with Mr. Reynolds at his home north of Canal Point.
